Day 7 | Faial Island | Pico Island

Azoris Faial Garden

B | L

After an early breakfast, take a ferry to Madalena on Pico Island for a day of discovery amid stunning landscapes and volcanic vineyards! Mount Pico, at a height of 7,713 feet, is Portugal's highest peak.

Vineyards of Pico Island. Once on the island, you'll visit the Vinhas da Criação Velha — the amazing Landscape of the Pico Island Vineyard Culture is a UNESCO World Heritage site. Here, vineyards miraculously grow in the rocky, volcanic ground. The vineyards are planted in small, enclosed plots called currais, which are protected by black volcanic basalt walls that shield the vines from harsh ocean winds and help retain heat. This results in a distinct microclimate ideal for growing grapes. As you stroll through the vineyards, gain more insight into the viticulture techniques of Pico, where vineyards have been cultivated for more than 500 years. You'll also learn about the famed Verdelho wine, a dry and aromatic white wine with a strong mineral character. Be sure and pause to take in the stunning contrast between the black lava rock, green vines and blue ocean— a perfect photo opportunity!

Take a break for lunch at a local winery to taste some of the island's traditional cuisine.

Whaler's Museum. Continue to the village of Lajes to visit the fascinating Museu dos Baleeiros, Whaler's Museum, and gain insight into the island's rich and complex whaling history. Pico was a major whaling hub, with Lajes do Pico serving as the island's whaling capital. Whaling in the Azores lasted from the 18th century until 1984, when whaling was officially banned. As you tour the museum, which is housed in an authentic whalers' boathouse, view original hand-crafted wooden whaling boats, harpoons, spears and whale bone carvings called scrimshaw. Other exhibits feature historical photos, videos and documents that illustrate the daily lives of whalers. You'll also learn about the museum's emphasis and dedication to whale conservation and marine life protection.

After your full and enriching day, take the ferry back to Faial Island and return to the hotel in Horta. This evening, relax over dinner on your own.

Day 8 | Faial Island | Ponta Delgada, São Miguel Island

This evening, choose a restaurant in Ponta Delgada for dinner on your own.

Day 9 | São Miguel Island

Octant Ponta Delgada

B | L

After breakfast, drive to the eastern part of the island toward the village of Furnas, passing by Vila Franca do Campo, the first capital of São Miguel.

Furnas Crater Visit. Begin today with a visit to the breathtaking Furnas Crater, one of the island's most famous volcanic calderas, to witness geothermal wonders up close. You'll be awed by the stunning Lagoa das Furnas volcanic lake, surrounded by green hills and misty landscapes and dotted with boiling fumaroles and mud pots along the shores. Marvel at the otherworldly landscape created by nearby steaming geysers, bubbling mud pools and sulfur vents. Watch locals prepare Cozido das Furnas, a hearty, traditional stew buried in the geothermal ground for several hours to cook by volcanic heat. Then, savor this uniquely prepared dish for lunch at a nearby restaurant!

Botanical Gardens & Geothermal Water Pool. After lunch, enjoy a leisurely walk through the Furnas village center to visit the Parque Terra Nostra, one of the Azores' most beautiful and diverse botanical gardens. Originally designed in the 18th century, the park is renowned for its blend of European landscaping styles with tropical elements and its geothermal thermal pools. Take a guided walk through the gardens along winding walking paths amid an idyllic labyrinth of serpentine canals and ponds, some filled with koi fish and aquatic plants. Discover hidden groves, flower tunnels and open lawns and admire the historic stone bridges, fountains and ancient trees that create an enchanting atmosphere. Stop at the park's iconic large orange-hued thermal pool, naturally heated to 95-104°F and rich in iron and minerals. Time and weather permitting, you may take a dip in the geothermal water pool or continue exploring the stunning gardens. Note: Remember to bring an old or black bathing suit and towel if you plan to soak in the geothermal water pool; the water's color may stain your suit.

Gorreana Tea Factory. Head back toward Ponta Delgada and stop en route to visit the Gorreana Tea Factory, Europe's oldest tea plantation still in operation. Founded in 1883 by Ermelinda Pacheco Gago da Câmara, the company remains a family-owned and operated business. During your visit, meander through the tea fields and tour the factory to learn about the production process and plantation history.

This evening, relax after your full day and have dinner at leisure.

This morning, embark on a thrilling, 3-hour boat expedition, looking for sightings of majestic, graceful whales and playful dolphins.

Talk about your marine life sightings over lunch at a local restaurant.

Logo do Fogo & Caldeira Velha. After lunch, visit the Lagoa do Fogo volcanic crater lake, one of the archipelago's most breathtaking natural wonders. The lake is part of a nature reserve and one of the least developed lakes in the Azores. From the crater's rim, witness the surrounding dramatic scenery and the various bird species and endemic plants. Continue to the Caldeira Velha, natural mineral hot springs enveloped by a lush forest of giant ferns, moss-covered rocks and tropical plants. See the famed warm iron waterfall that flows into one of the pools, creating a magical atmosphere.

Historic Ribeira Grande. Conclude this awe-inspiring day with a visit to Sao Miguel's second-largest town, Ribeira Grande, known for its old-world charm, volcanic landscapes and coastal beauty. Founded in the 16th century, the town retains its Portuguese character, with cobblestone streets, baroque churches and historic bridges. The main square features beautiful traditional Portuguese paving, a striking 17th-century Town Hall with its iconic clock tower, and a stunning 19th-century stone bridge spanning the Ribeira Grande river.
